[For the Whig and Courier.] .... THE FOOR DERTOR LAW, A.

Having obtained the fullowing opinion, I am nduced to give it publicity, for two ressum; first, that poor creditors, who, like in self, are not only subjected to the lass of their debts, but also to large claims for lees, under the operation of the present poor debtor laws, may pause statious to be connected by good roads. before they yield to claims of such doubtful va. fidity; and, secondly, that the attention of the Legislature may be called to the subject, and

A, an execution creditor, places an execution n the hands of an officer, who returns that he has arrested the debtor and discharged him on giving the bend required by statute. For this service, the officer has charged, in addition to the usual fees of travel, &c., a commission or dollarage, which in his particular case amounts lu 237.87. The debtor has since "disclosed," and taken the poor debtor's oath, and the execution remains unsatisfied.

Is A liable to pry such charge for dollarage?

OPINION. The act of 1829 entitled "an additional act respecting sheriffs," chap. 445. zec. 1. ustab-ishes the fees of officers in several particulars, and among others provides,

"For-levying and collecting executions in personal actions, for every doll ir of the first hundred dollars, three cents; for every dollar above one hundred and not exceeding two hundred dollare, two cents; and for every dollar bove two hundred dellars, one cent.'

By the 8th section, all acts and parts of acts dennaistent mity fills sto to hange and placed tion-repeals-certain provisions of the act of [82] chap. 105, utually called the fee bill act, which the provision was as follows: .

" Levying executions in personal actions, for the first one hundred dollers, four cents for every dollar; shove that, and not exceeding two hundred dollars, two cents for every dollar; and for all above two hundred dollars, one cent for every dollar."

The term dry, seems to have acquired a tech-, under the statute of Ma.... 1775, chap 41, and our stat. 1821, above referred to, somewhat more extensive and different from its original signification; thus; to levy is to collect, or exact. as to levy money, &c. Tun, Law Dic Vol 2, 428. This is its legal definition, according to the author cited; but, in the practice under these statutes, it is made to signily any service of an execution according to its ed before Judge Wilkins, and gave bail for his precept, as to take the goods and chattels, or the lands, or, for wantsthereof, the body of the debt. or. And in the case of Boswell v. Dingley, 4

Mass. 411, the Court held the taking of the body of the debtor to be such a levy of the execution se wante entitle the officer for his feer for duffat. age, although the debtor was discharged, by order of law, as a poor debter. The Court say the body of the debtor was taken, in that case, as a pledge for the payment of the execution.

But it will be observed, that the language of our statute of 1829, is essentially different from that of 1821. It is not for "levying," only but for " levying and collecting" executions in personal actions, that the officer is entitled to his dollarage or commission.

The Legislature acem to have had two objects payment of it depend upon the collection of the money. This construction "verus necessary, to give effect to the new mode of expression adopted by them in the act of 1829, an enactment made with the full knowledge of the practice that had grown up under the acts of Massachu-setts and Maine, and of the judicial construction Those feferred to, given to it before Maine had

But, if it is arged that the officer is responsible for an escape on arrest of the debter, and until he gave the bond required by statute, and, for distinction, and when he set up his carriage, he that reason should be indemnified by fees of dol had painted on the panel, "Nine tailors made larage, the answer is, that this liability is merely nominal, for we have no jail limits, and if we had, or, if going from the presence of the officer after arrest is an escape, the officer may grove the property of the debter, or other matter, which shows the plaintiff has susteined no injury, in defence of an action for an escape. Besides, the practice uniformly is, for the officer to notify the debtor that he has the execution a gainst him, and, for the debtor, at his conven-Right nurlong, the grocer, who more to an ience, within the life of the execution, to give allois B his me tial for the murder of Files the bond duly approved; and such approve be-defined and allows the sires a success of his ling made by two Inclines of the Peace and Quorun, the officer has no responsibility for the sufficiency of the bond.

" A Caution to Sub-Trasurers."- At a moet. [ing the Statute bond he will also be entitled, on elies, for taking the goods and chattels, or which is more usually the case, the lands of the debtor in satisfaction of the execution; so that each levy will entitle the officer to his dollarage, which could not have been the Legislative intention. There is nothing in this view of the case which militates against the provisions of the 8th Sec. Act 1835 as to the fees and costs of commitment. for the costs therein referred to do not necessapublic moneys would not have been equandered rily imply dollarage, but the fee for travel, bond and jailor's fee on commitment, &cc. Or, if dulsrage, is implied in those ferms, it may be included in the bond, and, if paid by the debtor, will the debt and dolls, may belong to me ont cer be fees on an execution collected

In every view of the case which I have been able to take, I am of the opinion that fees for dollarage are not chargeable under existing laws,

The addition to the list of widows' pensions will increase the expenditure about $1,372,000; and, to meet payments now due, the aum of $245,060 will be immediately required, as no appropriation has yet been made for paying the pensions granted by the act of July 7, 1825. There are conflicting parties among the Wyandote, which render the completion of any thing more probable at present. The information received from the Menomines hold out the prospect that a treaty might be made with them for the reinquishment of their possessions in Wisconsin.

Commissioners have been appointed to examine claims, for the payment of which provision was made in the treaties with the Miamies, the Chippe Ase the Smar the Sage and Pours and the Winnebagoes, ratified at the fast session, and instructions larged for the other stipulations in them. The Commissioners intrusted with the duties of carrying into effect the treaty with the Cherokees, of 1835, have steadily pursued their labors. More than one million of dollars have been paid to them, and upwards of sone million have been remitted, to be paid on their arrival west. In conformity with the treaty, a patent has been issued for the thirteen millions six hundred thousand acres set apart for them.

> Is HE RICH? Many a sigh is heaved many a heart'is broken -many a life is rendered miscrable by the terrible infatuation which parents often manifest in shooting a life companion for their daughters. How is it possible for happiness to result from the union of two principles so diametrically opposed to each other in every point as virtue to vice? And yet, how often is wealth considered a better recommendation to a young man, than virtue! How often is the first question which is asked respecting the suitor of a daughter, this: " Is he righ?" Yes, he abounds in wealth; but does that afford any getidence that he will make a kind and affectionate husband? "Is he rich?" husband? "Ishe rich?" Yes; " his cothing is purple and fine linen, and he fare sumptuously earry day," but can you juffer from this that he is virtuous? "Is he rich?" Yes! he has thousands floating on every ocean; but do not riches sometimes "take to themselves wings and fly away?" And will you consent that your daughter shall marry a man that has nothng to recommend him but his wealth? Ah! beware; the gilded bait sometimes covers a barbed book. Ask not then, "Is he rich?" Rather let the question be, - Is he virtuous?"

FATAL APPRAY. It is stated in the Nashville Whig that a street recounter took place at Conumbia, requesser, on one tain man, between Richard H. Hayes, Attorney at Law, at Columbia, and War Polk, brother to the speaker of the House of Representatives. The parties exchanged shots, and Mr Hayes, was shot through the head, and expired soon after. The origin of this mortal quarrel, was a slight-jest uttered by Hayen, at a dinner table. Polk felt aggrieved, and was not satisfied with an apology afterwards tendered by Hayes, but called at his office in the evening, and chastised him with a horsewhip This happened on Friday On Monday evening both parties met in the street, with the fatai result just mentioned.
